The METRO PAIN CLINIC GROUP - Diagnosis and Management of Complex Pain Problems

Metro Pain Clinics

The Metro Pain Clinic (MPC) group consists of specialist facilities devoted to the assessment and management of more complex acute, sub-acute and chronic pain problems. The first clinic was established in 1989, the second in late 2010, a third MPC in mid-2011 and the fourth clinic will open in late 2012.

Each MPC brings together a team of highly experienced practitioners derived from various crafts of related medicine.

In recognition of the fact that complex pain does at times require precision diagnosis and treatment, MPC practitioners utilise the latest research and development to perform interventional techniques for the diagnosis, treatment and management of painful conditions no matter where the pain resides.

Precision interventional fluoroscopic x-ray guided techniques such as injections, nerve ablations and neuromodulation are performed at some of these clinics.

MPC aims to provide a contemporary best-practice resource for people with moderate to severe pain that is not readily managed in other settings. They are therefore necessarily referral based clinics. The clinics' practitioners have a specific interest in the management of complex pain, and as such they provide facilities and comprehensive expertise in pain management from the provision of pain management programs, through to complex interventional fluoroscopic x-ray guided precision techniques.

Mission Statement:

MPC is to provide the best available care and management for patients with complex, acute or persistent pain. Our physicians and nurses are committed to professional development and collaboration with the international pain medicine community. We have worked diligently to become leaders in the field of pain medicine and will continue to maintain the highest levels of clinical and technical competence.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES – TWO ROLES AVAILABLE NOW!

In 2011, The Metro Spinal Clinic (MSC) was awarded the Excellence in Pain Practice Award after assessment by the World Institute of Pain (WIP). This award, the first given in Australia, was for “clinical pain practice specializing in musculoskeletal pain syndromes”.

The MPC group brings together a team of highly experienced practitioners, including musculoskeletal, sports and interventional pain management physicians. Our practitioners participate in CME and contribute substantially to the scientific literature in the field of pain medicine. Additionally, our practitioners continue to be invited as keynote speakers at international conferences in this field of medicine. We keep up to date with contemporary research, and indeed contribute to it.

It should be noted that although medical consultations are part of the Medicare system, the interventions are performed in Private facilities. Workcover and TAC pain problems are also dealt with at MPC.

Metro Pain Group is expanding and actively seeking Pain Specialists with specific interest working with leading likewise professionals, in well supported and equipped locations throughout the Melbourne metropolitan area.

Suitable individuals will have direct access to:

- An extensive collegial support network
- Full Time Research Department (two PHD's and Research Assistants)
- State of the art equipment
- Ongoing training and CPD/CME
- Involvement in international trials, podium presentations and speaking opportunities
- Working within a comprehensive facility and with an integrated team

Take the stress out of the administrative burden involved with running your own practice and get into the vocation you truly enjoy. Let Metro Pain Group look after you, so that you can look after your patients!

If you are a Doctor with experience or an interest in musculoskeletal medicine, pain medicine, sports medicine, rehabilitation medicine, occupational medicine or rheumatology and would like to consider working with international leaders in pain management, we would very much like to hear from you.
